

The Department of Teaching and Learning

Graduate Certificate in Online Teaching and Training is offered as a sequence of courses that includes both conceptual and strategic implementation foci. Completion of the certificate program will provide educators and trainers with improved ability in their online teaching, training, and professional development through an emphasis on (1) strong assessment practices, (2) active learning strategies, (3) effective digital media implementation, and (4) inclusion of appropriate social media components.

The certificate requires completion of the following 12 hours of graduate credit:

CIT 648	Issues & Methods of Online Learning
CIT 609	Internet for Learning
CIT 643	Designing Digital Materials
CIT 647	Creating Online Learning Environments

These courses are offered such that completion of the certificate can be accomplished in a single academic year.

Summer 2016
Fall 2016
Spring 2017
Summer 2017
Fall 2017
Spring 2018

CIT 609 Internet for Learning
CIT 643 Designing Digital Materials
CIT 609 Internet for Learning and CIT 648 Issues & Methods of Online Learning
CIT 647 Creating Online Learning Environments
CIT 643 Designing Digital Materials
CIT 609 Internet for Learning and CIT 648 Issues & Methods of Online Learning

