Transfer Credits

Non-Degree Seeking

A maximum of 15 graduate credits earned as a non-degree seeking student can be considered for transfer credit and count toward a graduate degree once a student is admitted to a graduate degree program.

Degree Seeking

Incoming doctoral students who completed graduate coursework at another institution can transfer in up to 12 credits of prior graduate coursework for credit towards their new degree program (incoming doctoral students who completed graduate coursework at UNLV can transfer in up to 15 such credits) if that course work was not completed as a part of credits earned (whether required or elective) for a prior degree, and if the coursework is relevant to their doctoral programs of study (see page 2, below). All incoming doctoral students can file an appeal (see pages 3-4, below) to have additional credits of prior graduate coursework that meets the afore-referenced stipulations considered for transfer.

Continuous Enrollment

After admission to a graduate program of study, students must complete at least 6 graduate credits over the next three semesters (e.g., Fall, Spring, Summer OR Spring, Summer, Fall, etc.) to remain “active” in their degree programs. Students working on a thesis or dissertation must complete at least 3 graduate credits per regular semester (excluding Summer) until and including the semester they intend to graduate. Students may apply for a leave of absence in order to remain “active” without enrolling in the required minimum number of credits.

Course Substitutions

In consultation with their advisors, graduate students can, on a case-by-case basis, substitute another comparable course for a required course in their program of study.

  An appeal may include:
  1. A written response, with or without documentation, by the named parties in the student’s appeal
  2. A written response from the faculty and/or administrators signing this form

- If the issue is not resolved between the student and course instructor or faculty member, a written appeal should first be directed to the Graduate Coordinator of the department in question. If the problem remains unresolved to the student’s satisfaction, appeals must be directed in progressive order to the Department Chair/School Director, College Dean, then subsequently to the Graduate Dean. The Graduate Dean may act to resolve the problem, or the Dean may request input and guidance from the Graduate College Student Appeals & Legal Issues Committee who will be charged with reviewing the appeal, holding an information gathering meeting with the appellant, then hold an informational meeting with the faculty, staff, and/or administrators involved, and finally make their advisory recommendation to the Graduate Dean. The Graduate Dean will render a final decision and inform the student and department accordingly.

- Advisors and departments may have varying methods for processing appeals, so please contact your department for specific policies and procedures. However, all appeals should be reviewed by the department, and each successive level of review, in a timely manner consistent with standard business practice.

- Note that the Graduate College must receive grade appeals within 60 calendar days from the last day of the term or semester in question. All other appeals must be filed with the Graduate College (FDH 352) in a timely manner, and unless special circumstances prevail, appeals should not be submitted more than 90 days after the inciting incident or catalyst for the appeal.

- Each appeal is reviewed individually and a decision will be based on the merits and the documentation provided.

- Appeals regarding financial issues (e.g., tuition refund, tuition waiver, student fees, late fees, etc.) must be submitted separately to the UNLV Student Accounts Office, using their Tuition & Fee Appeal Form. If an appeal involves both an academic and financial issue, the student should submit an academic appeal first to the Graduate College and wait for a decision before commencing with the financial appeal to the Student Accounts Office. For further information concerning the financial appeal process please visit: http://cashiering.unlv.edu/fee_appeal.html.
